EXPLANATIONS
1- As the tuition fees for Non-Thesis Master's programs are determined as the total program fee, students are obligated to pay the program fee specified for the academic year in which they enroll.
2- For the Master's programs with thesis (Evening Education), the semester fees may be updated to apply to all students before the start of each academic year, and all enrolled students will be subject to these new fees. (This does not apply to students who enrolled before the Fall semester of the 2023-2024 academic year. These students are obligated to pay the fees determined at the time of their enrollment.)
3- For enrolled International Students in Master's programs with thesis and Ph.D. programs, the semester fees may be updated to apply to all students before the start of each academic year, and all enrolled students will be subject to these new fees. (This does not apply to students who enrolled before the Fall semester of the 2023-2024 academic year. These students are obligated to pay the fees determined at the time of their enrollment.)
4- Unless there is an update in the fees, the old fees will remain valid.
